Talking to Alzheimer's: Simple Ways to Connect When You Visit with a Family Member or Friend
Claudia J. Strauss

March 7, 2016

Dear friends and supporters,

I am writing to the many volunteer leaders who are so critical to the success of the Alzheimer's Association. As you may be aware, today the Boston Globe and STAT news published an article focusing on the governance changes underway at the Alzheimer's Association. Unfortunately, the article was misleading and inaccurate.

As of this July, the overwhelming number of chapters of the Alzheimer's Association will be combining under a single corporate structure, designed to more effectively and efficiently achieve our mission. Unfortunately, of our more than 80 chapters, 6 have decided to leave the Alzheimer's Association.

Our Board of Directors has voted to remain a vibrant part of the Alzheimer's Association and we are proud of our leadership within our Association. Today's story in the Boston Globe gives the impression that these changes will lead to a diminishing commitment to supporting families living with the disease and advancing our research investments. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I have the privilege of chairing a national task force charting our future direction with care and support. We have agreed upon a plan that calls for the Alzheimer's Association to increase our investments in care and support so that all Americans have access to both a timely diagnosis and quality care and support. Our work in Massachusetts and New Hampshire will continue and in fact we are committed to expanding our programs and services, our efforts to engage health care systems and our initiatives supporting those with mild Alzheimer's; in the early stage of the disease.

Similarly, we are expanding our international research programs, as we do everything possible to advance the science. And, intimately connected to this is the recent success of our public policy efforts. Because of the persistence of our advocates, we were thrilled when Congress approved a remarkable $350 million targeted increase in NIH Alzheimer's research funding.

Our vision is a World Without Alzheimer's. Until that vision is realized, please know that we remain passionately committed to supporting families who are living with Alzheimer's today, while we do everything possible to advance the science, to achieve breakthroughs in the years to come.

We so appreciate and value your remarkable support and work. Please accept my personal thank you and feel free to reach out should you have any concerns or questions.

Sincerely,

Jim Wessler
President and CEO
Alzheimer's Association, MA/NH Chapter
